He explained the concept of Migration, types of migration, patterns of migration, problems faced by migrants at the place of destination like health burden, lack of legal protection, little social protection, lack of security, no affordable housing facilities and lack of basic amenities etc, and during COVID-19 pandemic large number of migrants faced various problems in cities and were forced to return to their native places.

The Second resource person Prof.Basavaraj.S.Benni, Department of Economics Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Bellary spoke on “Indian Business and post COVID opportunities issues and challenges”. He explained how the various business activities in India were disrupted due to COVID-19 pandemic. This created operational and financial challenges for Indian businesses. The lockdown reduced the cash flows as manufacturing activities were worst hit. Similarly the demand and supply chain were adversely affected. All this had great impact on Indian economic activities.

In post COVID scenario the different economics activities like manufacturing, construction, rail services both passengers and freight, wholesale, retail etc, began picking up. To boost the economy the government of India has announced monetary packages for MSMEIS, startups and others industries like pharma defense solar energy etc, focusing on Aatmanirbhar Bharat. Thus the Indian businesses have geared up to overcome issues and challenges in the way of development.
